Tasks' design and clarity of the roles and functions
Availability and use of protocols
Availability and accuracy of the results
Technological problems
Equipment maintenance

Knowledge and aptitudes
Competences
Physical and mental health
Fatigue

Factors related with healthcare professionals

Factors related with tasks and technologies

Factors related with patients

Condition, complexity
Language and communication
Personality and social factors

Oral communication
Written communication
Supervision
Team composition
Staffing
Workload and shift system

Factors related with the team

Contributing factors to adverse events

Factors related with the environment and the equipment

Administrative support
Leadership
Work environment
Resources available
Ergonomics

Financial resources
Organisational structure
Policies and regulation
Health services
Link and alliances with other organisations

Organizational and economic factors

Human factors

Error is unavoidable because of human limitation
Short-term memory capacity limited to 5 to 7 pieces of information
Negative effects of stress over the errors rates
Tunnel vision
Fatigue and psychological factors
Limited ability to perform several activities at the same time